Memorial Day.

BY J. H. B.

Sire, gather thy home gods to thee,
And repeat the story anew,
Of those who gave their lives so free,
For the cause they thought so true.

Woman, weave thy garland rare,
To their sacred memory dear;
And thy hands the tribute bear,
And bestow it with a tear.

Maiden, with lily and with rose,
Entwine a wreath of sweet perfume;
Go place it o'er the brow of those,
Immortal'd, within the tomb.

Consecrate this day so holy;
Father, mother, sister, brother,
Go honor those who faced the volley
For the right, and died together.

Forget them not, for oh! how can you?
Glorious dead, so true and brave;
Each grave with holy tears bedew,
Life they gave your homes to save.

Beneath the mounds of this sad city,
Lies there one who wore the Blue?
Scorn it not, be moved with pity,
For loved was he by some one, too.

The Blue and Gray sleep peaceful here,
Both noble deeds have done,
They loved and died for the princess fair,
The goddess by our fathers won.

Their immortal'd souls commingled are,
Hatred being a thing despised.
Forget then, Oh! ye mortals here,
All malice, envy, cast aside.

Why should the North the South malign?
Or th South her spleen display?
Divided by no subtle line,
Alike we're made of clay.

Write the Blue then, with the Gray,
Slight not a soldier's grave;
But hand in hand in solemn array,
Strew flowers o'er the Deathless brave.

Business is improving.

A Prize Fight.

There is some talk of a prize fight at Lake Park at three o'clock this afternoon, between two prominent citizens of Frankfort. The "spongers" and "referees" are men of considerable prominence in business circles in this city, and quite a little excitement has been created in sporting circles by the rumor. Bets of five to one are freely offered on the "heavy weight" man, with but few takers. The "light weight" is known to be "some pumpkins" with shooting irons, if nobody interferes, but his friends are not willing to risk their wealth on his skill as a pugilist. The fight will not be for fun so much as to settle a little unpleasantness between the parties.

Time will be called at three o'clock, sharp, and it is expected that a very large crowd will be present to witness the contest. No admission fee will be charged at the gate, but spectators will not, under any circumstances, be permitted inside the ring.

The matter has been kept very quiet, only the knowing ones being in the secret, and it is thought the sport will not be disturbed by the interference of the officers of the law.

Our information about the affair was obtained by overhearing a conversation in the post-office lobby yesterday morning between two of "the boys."

He Paid For Them.

Last Sunday week one of the finest looking young ladies in this county came down stairs, dressed for church, and looking just too sweet, when she was addressed by a distant male relative (rather elderly) as follows:

"Minnie, you look mighty pretty and sweet this morning, and if you'll kiss me, I'll give you a dollar."

The young lady hesitated a few moments, and, having considered the proposition, consented to kiss the distant male relative in consideration of the payment of one dollar. She kissed him, and received the dollar, as promised.

After awhile the d. m. r. said, "Minnie, I have just a half dollar left, and you look so pretty and sweet that I'll give it to you if you will kiss me again."

The kiss was immediately given and the money paid over, and then the beautiful Sunday Law breaker went to church.

When she came home from church she approached her distant male relative, and, evidently having thought the matter over, said, "Here, cousin Dock; take your money back; I don't want your dollar and a half."

The hard hearted d. m. r. replied, "Keep it, honey; the money is yours; somebody sent it to you yesterday by me, and I forgot to give it to you."

She kept the money, but we will wager a year's subscription to the ROUNDABOUT that she will never kiss him again for love nor money.

Crutcher & Starks are making arrangements to occupy the store now occupied by Mr. E. Power, in addition to their present store-room. Work has been commenced, as will be seen by the following "dispatches," posted on the front door of the Capital Clothing Establishment.

FIRST DISPATCH.

THURSDAY, 3, P. M.—Partition now up. Will soon be dry, and we will then put what goods we can on base shelf. Can't do any more work till Mr. Power returns. He is out of town. He will occupy room in Noel's Block on Ann street. C. & S.

SECOND DISPATCH.

THURSDAY, 7, P. M.—Will soon close. Will open to-morrow, at 5:50, a. m. The material for the front will be here this evening, but Mr. Mike Buckley, the contractor, thinks he cannot do anything on it till Monday, at which time he will commence and finish as soon as possible. Mr. Charles Egbert will do the painting and papering. This new plank partition will be taken out when the other room is ready. Will keep the public posted as work progresses. C. & S.

THIRD DISPATCH.

FRIDAY, 4, A. M.—Mr. Starks in bed. Mr. Shelton, m. of c., now cleaning store. Will be ready for business about 7, a. m. The contractor will do nothing on the improvement to-day. Sorry our old pard., L. D. C., has to leave us, as we understand he goes to the mountains with the striped boys. He's a good boy, and we hope he'll have a nice time. "Will keep public posted as to his movements. Commissioners have not leased the prison yet. C. & S.

There will be no preaching at the Christian Church to-morrow, but at 10½ o'clock, a. m., the members of that congregation will meet in the lecture room and have their usual communion services.

One of the most prominent lawyers of the city stumbled against the fist of one of his professional brethren Tuesday afternoon with such force as to cause him to assume a horizontal position on the floor, without ceremony. The unfortunate man came very near getting angry with his brother, thinking the act was done purposely. Fortunately, the presence of an elderly member of the profession prevented the gentleman from doing anything rash.

A cow belonging to Mrs. John Vaughn, living near Cedar Run, fell into a well Tuesday afternoon, where she remained three hours before she could be gotten out. Mr. Allen Vaughn saw her when she fell, and immediately threw a rope over her horns, by which he held her head above water until the neighbors, who had been hastily summoned, could dig a trench to the water's edge, through which the cow walked out. No damage was done to the animal except that she was thoroughly chilled.

Mass Temperance Meeting.

The expense of attending the State Mass Temperance meeting at Park Hill Camp Ground, which meets July 13th, will be comparatively very small. All the railroads offer reduced rates. The E. & P. R. R. will sell tickets at three cents per mile, each way; the C. S. R. R. will sell tickets at two cents per mile, each way; the L. & N. R. R., and L. C. & L. R. R. will sell tickets at full fare going, and one third of regular fare returning; and the K. C. R. R. will sell at half the regular fare each way, or, more properly, one fare for round trip.

Below we give an estimate of the cost of living on the grounds:

Admission fee to grounds.....	$ 10
Cottage of 2 rooms, per day, about.....	1 00
Cottage of 1 room, per day, about.....	75
Regular board at dining hall, per day.....	1 00
Single meals.....	50
Single lodging.....	50

These prices include straw for two double bunks in each cottage. Cots, chairs, water buckets, wash basins, cups, &c., will be on the ground for rent at nominal rates.

Porters will be on hand whose prices shall be reasonable. Horses kept at the stable at $1 per day, 50 cents for single feed, or 25 cents for hay. Pasturage in the neighborhood can be had at ten cents per day.

Persons who expect to remain during the meeting should bring their own bedding. Each room in cottage will accommodate four persons, and the expense ought not to be more than $1 25 per day, each, and perhaps less.

The expense can be materially reduced by furnishing your own provisions.
